Biography – Hazel Tiffany

I came to Group Partners originally as a client of the company seeking answers to yet another challenge of this kind. I knew there had to be another way to deal with complex organisations and their challenges and this was my first breakthrough into finding the answer.

Over the last 10 years I have been a partner in the development of the Practice. For me, that means constantly exploring new ways to maximize the use of our approach – particularly in the way that we develop tools and structures that deal with the most complex of issues.

I have a deep passion for uncovering meaning from the masses of information that already exists within our clients' world and showing them ways to unlock the value that it holds for them. I firmly believe that it's time that organisations need to take ownership of their future and allow themselves the luxury of quality thinking. In today's world, we need more purpose and meaning in every aspect of our lives and that can only happen if we reengage with and embrace the complexity that exists around us and see it as a dynamic part of the system we belong to.
