Challenging Our Leadership Ability - Visual Tools & Techniques, Structured Frameworks:
The Non-Traditional Consulting Approach

Visual tools and techniques, structured frameworks, working collaboratively to co-create 'live' with clients is not considered a traditional consulting approach. Transferring confidence and the capability to think and then execute in a far smarter way - that's not either.

However after some 3000 interventions around the world this is the proven model behind the philosophy developed by Group Partners.

The participants will explain their experiences from around the world. They have helped leadership teams rethink the way they consider pretty much everything.

They will then transfer some of this thinking through rich conversations and feedback sessions held at tables around some of the critical conditions for being the kind of leader that might be more appropriate today.
