

GENEVA GROUP INTERNATIONAL

Corporate & Commercial Law Practice Group

Different local laws and procedures may affect the conduct of all GGI members and their clients on a cross-border basis and this is even more evident in the international or multinational environment we experience today.

The core purpose of a Corporate & Commercial Law Practice Group is to enhance the development of skills and professionalism within the legal field to benefit the members and their clients and to further promote their respective business. The group shall be open to all members, not only lawyers, who are interested in the legal area and its consequences on the business of today.

Being part of the Corporate & Commercial Law Practice Group means you will have opportunities to learn from highly experienced lawyers from different jurisdiction dealing with all kinds of corporate & commercial legal matters. You will also be able to share your own experiences with others and discuss possible solutions to legal matters.

Different topics will be raised and discussed within the group. The topics will differ from time to time depending on interesting recent legal developments and questions raised by members of the group.

Some examples of topics that I see as relevant today are:

- Is a Director & Officer Liability Insurance necessary or what risks do you take as a director or officer for a company?
  - Cross border litigations – time to cooperate?
  - Class action in Europe – something to worry about or just empty threats?
  - Labour law – different aspects and experiences in the aftermath of the financial crisis
  - Insider trading – recent case law
  - Marketing & Advertising law – is the harmonization work within EU effective?
  - Product Liability
  - Court proceeding, arbitration or mediation – what do I choose?
  - International Contract law - negotiating and drafting a contract
  - Cross-border insurance claims
