Miami, Florida

Miami is a city located on the Atlantic coast in south-eastern Florida, the most populous county in Florida and the eighth-most populous county in the United States with a population of 2,500,625.

Miami is a major center and a leader in finance, commerce, culture, media, entertainment, the arts, and international trade. In 2010, Miami ranked seventh in the United States in terms of finance, commerce, culture, entertainment, fashion, education, and other sectors.

Downtown Miami and South Florida are home to the largest concentration of international banks in the United States, and is home to many large companies both nationally and internationally. The Civic Center is a major center for hospitals, research institutes, medical centers, and biotechnology industries. For more than two decades, the Port of Miami, known as the "Cruise Capital of the World" has been the number one cruise passenger port in the world, accommodating some of the world's largest cruise ships and operations, and is currently the busiest in both passenger traffic and cruise lines.

Climate

Miami has a tropical monsoon climate with hot and humid summers and short, warm winters, with a marked drier season in the winter.

The wet season begins around May, ending in mid-October. During this period, temperatures are in the mid 29–35°C, accompanied by high humidity. The heat is often relieved by afternoon thunderstorms or a sea breeze that develops off the Atlantic Ocean, which then allows lower temperatures, but conditions still remain very muggy.

Hurricane season officially runs from June 1 through November 30, although hurricanes can develop beyond those dates. The most likely time for Miami to be hit is during the peak of the Cape Verde season which is mid-August through the end of September.
